to manufacture moral muscle and retain soul power as munitions of war with which to meet on vantage ground the onsets of evil in the years of youth. The voice of heaven, in the expression, "Oh, that young man will come out all right; he is just sowing his wild oats now," is then when a more pernicious sentiment never insinuated itself into the minds of sober, thinking men and women, nor a more flagrant falsehood fabricated by the great father of lies. I tell you that just as certain as the seed of evil is sown, the harvest follows cause, the man who has sown wild oats in youth has not only squandered and prostituted a noble part of his proud heritage, but he is as the extent of his wild oat sowing rendered himself less impervious and invulnerable to the fiery darts of the evil one. I thank God that his grace is sufficient to lift men and women out of the mire of sin, that the life pits and depths of degradation, into which if left to themselves would have descended to the very bottom of desecration. The vices and follies of youth instead of fortifying them against the assaults of evil in after her places a gold ring upon her finger, a simple band of gold but symbolizing to them both a band which nothing but the hand of death can sever. How happy she is to lean upon the arm of such a noble, chivalrous man and to look up in his face and remember that she has entrusted her life and happiness to his keeping and protection! Every body saying, "May the radiant sun illumine that witness to the mutual devotion of a faithful and dutiful domination of their married life." She sees with proud elastic step and thrilling heart to adorn and grace his splendid home. What perfect bliss! Is the demon of discord ever ripe on the surface of a life so happy? All a cloud of sorrow ever shadowy so serene? Months have passed, it is night, the single stroke of the handsome clock on the mantle dictates the hour to be one with the morning, her eyes are red in the waking-glass, she is waiting for the fall of the thought of her girlhood's home, the peace and happiness that were hers in her father's splendid home, flashes upon her it is only for a moment and she dismisses the thought; unworthy her and disloyal to him; he kisses the ring because it is his and so renews her pledge of fidelity. Years roll by, it is night again, midnight in mid-winter, a lonely, haggard woman is shivering before an empty grate in a poorly furnished room. She is waiting for the fall of the thought to shield its little form from horrors of a winter's night. Is it the beauty who stood amid light and music and perfume and received a queen might from a courtier the vow of fidelity unto death? Then rarely death has come; no yet, yet is coming, he knocks at the door, she staggers in, a fiend incarnate with red, blood-shot eyes. He reviles her and curses her resignation; he commands her hasty waiting on the drunken whim and because she is a woman she obeys the too prompt obedience, he strikes her to the floor. The blow has done its work, yet death has come. Thank God she is free once more.

When to the picnic goes the dude
And leaves behind the dusty town,
And on an ant hill in the wood
Quite unsuspectedly sits down,
What artist's pencil can portray
The sudden start, the frenzied mien,
The speed with which he hastes away,
To seek some lone, sequestered scene?

The Cholera in Europe.

MADRID, Aug. 16.—The cholera reports for to-day show that there were fifteen new cases and twelve deaths in the city of Madrid, and sixty-five new cases and thirty deaths in the province. The slight panic which broke out a few days ago has subsided. The epidemic shows no further sign of an increase. Wherever the disease prevails most stringent precautions are taken to prevent its spread.

Returns from the cholera infected districts of Spain show the actual number of new cases on Saturday to have been 4,076, and the total number of deaths from the disease, 1,758. The plague has made its appearance at Barcelona, where 23 cases and 16 deaths are reported. Some of the most crowded houses have been emptied and their tenants temporarily lodged a few miles outside of the city. The public buildings are disinfected daily. The epidemic is still ravaging in Granada, but is decreasing in the other Southern provinces.

MARSEILLES.

MARSEILLES, Aug. 16.—There were twenty-seven deaths in this city to-day from cholera. At the Pharo Hospital nineteen cases were admitted and seven died while seventy remain under treatment.

There were thirty-four deaths from cholera here Saturday.

MADRID, Aug. 17.—The places in Spain in which the principal increase of Cholera occurred yesterday, as compared with Friday last, were Tarragona, and Valladolid. In the former place there were yesterday 77 new cases and 10 deaths. The official returns show that in Granada the disease has reached its light and remains stationary; in Albacete yesterday there were 28 new cases and 23 deaths, in Castellon de la Plana 22 new cases and 17 deaths, in Cuenca 154 new cases and 32 deaths, in Teruel 46 new cases and 32 deaths, in Valencia 82 new cases and 49 deaths and in Madrid 20 new cases and 2 deaths. All of these returns show decreases in the numbers of both new cases and deaths.

In the whole of Spain yesterday there were 4,936 new cases of cholera and 1,556 deaths.

There have been slight riots at Logrona, due to the resistance of the inhabitants to certain sanitary regulations. The Governor of Granada has been attacked with cholera.

There were reported to-day twenty-four new cases of cholera and fourteen deaths in Madrid City and forty-six new cases and sixteen deaths in the province.

PARIS, Aug. 17.—Refugees fleeing from the cholera in Marseilles have introduced the disease into Sisteron and other villages in the Alpine provinces of France.

MARSEILLES, Aug. 17.—There have been 109 deaths from cholera in this city since Friday. There were twenty-four deaths from cholera in Marseilles to-day, and fifty-two new cases were reported.

Thirty deaths from cholera have occurred in Salon and fifteen in two neighboring towns.

MARSEILLES, Aug. 18.—Twelve deaths from cholera occurred in Salon to-day and one death in Aubagne. Twenty-seven deaths from cholera were reported in Marseilles to-day.

The cholera is spreading in the suburban village. A whole family has died of cholera at St. Loup.

ROME, Aug. 18.—A commissioner has been appointed to examine the hospitals of Rome and to take measures to meet a possible epidemic of cholera.

MADRID, Aug. 18.—Returns show that in the whole of Spain yesterday there were 4,890 new cases of cholera, and 1,718 deaths.

The Louisville Exposition is now open and in good running order and bids fair to surpass any heretofore held.

A Lieutenant and seven men of the regular army are still detailed to guard the tomb of Garfield, although he has been dead for four years. This is sheer nonsense and should be stopped.

Hopkinsville, Bowling Green, Covington, Frankfort, Henderson, Lexington, Louisville, Maysville, Newport, Owensboro and Paducah will become special delivery post-offices on and after Oct. 1st.

The special delivery stamps to be used to hasten the delivery of letters in large cities, will be ready for use by October 1st. They will cost 10 cents and when put on a letter in addition to the regular postage will be delivered at once by a carrier to any place in the city limits of cities ranked as special delivery offices.

The Ohio Democratic State Convention met yesterday at Columbus. The indications were that Gov. Hoadley would be re-nominated unless Hon. A. G. Thurman could be prevailed upon to accept the nomination for Governor. Neither of them is a candidate for the honor.

The Pike's Peak Railway, which will probably be completed this year, will be 200 feet higher than even the Lima and Oroya Railroad in Peru. It is now in operation to a point over 12,000 feet above the level of the sea. The average grade is 270 feet to the mile. This will be the most notable piece of track in the world.—State Journal.

HOWELL KY.

Aug. 17th, 1885.

ED. SOUTH KENTUCKIAN:

The newspaper reader now breathes a sigh of relief that the final obsequies of Gen'l. Grant are over. For six months the papers throughout the country have been filled with detailed accounts of the General's condition, his physicians, eager to gain notoriety have placarded before the public gaze, every symptom of his disease and the reporters seemed to have vied with each other in an effort to give to their respective journals, his every word and action. The poor man could not draw a long breath without having a report of it telegraphed throughout the United States; the minutest actions of his family were heralded over the land and even every word and deed of his servants, Henry and Harrison, was proclaimed far and wide.

Now what has this profited the public? what has the country gained by knowing every step in the progress of Gen'l. Grant's disease? Only the gratification of an idle curiosity which it were better to crush than to pander to.

With all due respect to the noble character and brilliant achievements of this departed hero, your correspondent stoutly protests against the injustice done to the reading public, by our editors in thus entering into the minutiae of the every day actions of any man not occupying a position of public trust.

This is a day of progress; business is the watch word of the age and the man who has to toil for his daily bread, with only a few minutes to devote to reading every day, has not the time nor the inclination to occupy all his leisure moments in reading about how Gen'l. Grant slept last night, or what he ate for breakfast or how far he walked without fatigue. Such trivial facts were of great interest to the personal friends of the dead statesman, and he who has nothing else to do, can afford to read these daily reports, but the man of business grows tired of so much sameness in his literature and wants a more substantial return for his reading.

Mrs. Lou Russell, daughter of Mr. William Rives near Bennettsville and wife of Rufus Russell, Esq., died at her home in the Church Hill neighborhood on last Saturday and her funeral was preached at the residence of her father on yesterday. Mrs. Russell was the sixth child of her father who has died within the last 3 or 4 years and she leaves a husband and two little children besides other relations and many friends to mourn her death. To the sorrowing family and relations your correspondent would offer his deepest sympathy in their bereavement.

Mrs. Isaac Cayce, near Beverly, has for several weeks, been quite sick with typhoid fever and her condition on yesterday was thought to be very critical. Mrs. Cayce is a good woman and it is to be hoped that she may soon recover from her illness.

The series of meetings which were to have been commenced at "Sharon church" on the first Sunday and which were postponed on account of hot weather were begun on last Sunday. Rev. H. F. Perry, will in the conduct of the meetings, be assisted by Revs. G. W. Eichleberger and A. C. Biddle, of the latter of whom it may be said that he will not only preach to sinners but will also labor earnestly for the conversion of a certain fair lady, to a doctrine other than that of Presbyterianism.

Notwithstanding the dry weather and dusty roads brandances and picnics are still the order of the day in this part of the country. On Thursday night the 13th inst, at the residence of Mr. Rufus Whitlock, a nice party was given, which which was largely attended and greatly enjoyed. Your correspondent was not present but supposed the party to have been a success in every particular.

On last Saturday afternoon a party of ladies and gentlemen from the Lafayette neighborhood, together with a few young people of this vicinity, met at Noah's Spring for the purpose of social enjoyment. Croquet playing, delightful promenades and sweet converse, constituted the order of exercises, which in addition to an elegant supper provided by the young ladies, served to beguile a few hours very pleasantly. Mr. John Boddie, of Lafayette, was mainly instrumental in getting up the affair and to him all present return many thanks for an afternoon of much pleasure.

Next Wednesday night the 19th will be one of the memorable epochs in the history of this section, as at that time a moonlight picnic will be given to Miss Katie Griffey by her mother. Miss Katie is a charming hostess and the brilliant success of all her past entertainments is a guarantee that the coming picnic will be a highly enjoyable affair. The event is looked forward to with many anticipations of pleasure by the young people of this community.

Several real estate transfers have recently been made in this neighborhood, of which may be mentioned the sale of Mrs. M. B. Robinson's farm of 225 acres to W. E. Lacey, of Lafayette, for $35.00 per acre; also the sale of 16 acres of very fine woodland by J. W. Ferrell to Jas. B. Radford at the handsome price of $52.50 per acre. These prices augur well for the financial interest of South Christian and prove beyond cavil that this section is entering upon an era of prosperity that it has not for many years enjoyed. The enhancement of our real estate is but one of the many advantages accruing to us from the building of the I. A. & T. R. R.

Mrs. Ida Maxey, relict of the late Rev. M. A. Maxey, of Columbia, Tenn., has for some weeks been visiting friends in the Bennettsville neighborhood.

Misses Lizzie Owen and Lula Pierce, two very pretty young ladies from near Church Hill, lately visited their cousin Miss Mary Pink Sherrill.

Miss Cammie Stites, an accomplished lady from Henderson, Ky., recently spent a week with Mrs. R. P. Owsley. Miss Belle McKenzie, an attractive daughter of Dr. John McKenzie, who a few years ago moved from this community to Illinois, is now visiting her uncle, Dr. John L. Dulin, of Beverly.

Mr. and Mrs. Al. Layne, of Fairview, Ky., spent a few days of last week with the family of Mr. Lafayette Wilkins.

Miss Nannie Wilson, daughter of Dr. E. A. Wilson, not long since visited her friend and former schoolmate Miss Annie Tandy, of Trenton, Ky.

Mr. D. B. Owsley returned home a few days ago from a sojourn at some medicinal spring of Pennsylvania. Mr. Owsley's trip was somewhat beneficial to his health, as he is now considerably better than when he left home.

Residence Burned.

The dwelling house of Mr. W. R. Thompson, on Nashville street, was burned last Tuesday morning before daylight. The fire was discovered about 3 o'clock and was undoubtedly the work of an incendiary. It originated on the roof in the valley between the main building and the dining room, which was remote from the kitchen or any part of the house where there had been a fire or a light.

Mr. Thompson and family were aroused by the alarm outside and barely had time to dress hastily and get out with their lives. The furniture in one or two lower rooms was gotten out but nothing in the second story was saved. The house was a cottage known as the Rumsey place, on the north side of Nashville street, two squares east of the Railroad. Mr. Thompson, we learned, had $1,500 insurance on the house and its contents and his loss will not be a great deal above the insurance. Up to yesterday evening no clue had been obtained to lead to the discovery of the dastardly perpetrator of the deed, though Mr. Thompson has suspicions as to the identity of the incendiary.

A large crowd turned out to the fire, notwithstanding the early hour and the fire engine reached the scene in a short time, but too late to do any good.

The property was insured in Long, Garnett & Co's., agency.

A Governor Who Stole Negroes.

[Exchange.] Gov. Pierce yesterday forwarded to Warner M. Bateman at Cincinnati $100 which Bateman accepted in full satisfaction of a judgment rendered against Pierce at Paducah in 1864 for the value of a mulatto boy and girl he had withheld from the owner and employed when he was Quartermaster at that place. The costs and judgments now amount to over $6,000. The case has been defended for Pierce by the Governmental attorney, but the judgment was kept alive, with frequent efforts to collect, and Pierce pays the nominal sum to save further annoyance.

The Modern Girl's Force.

Brown—"The modern girl is a useless creature."

Robinson—"Think so?"

B.—"Certainly. Good for nothing but dawdling over the piano or languishing before the looking glass. She has no force to her."

R.—"Don't know about that. There's Smith's girl now—"

B.—"Well?"

R.—"Well, Roe and Doe, fine young men, both fell in love with her. She encouraged them both, and from being fast friends they became bitter enemies. Then while they were running around chasing each other with clubs on her account, she quietly goes off and marries the aid of the roller rink who taught her skating, thus making three men miserable."

B.—"Three?"

R.—"Yes, the two who failed to get her and the one who got her. No force to her! Here I was mistaken about the modern girl, my friend."—Boston Courier.

Mr. Brown is the son of Mr. Samuel M. Brown, of this county. He went to Texas last winter and settled there, and displayed the good sense, for which all Kentuckians are conspicuous, by returning to Kentucky for a wife. He is a very enterprising young man of very exemplary habits and good business qualifications, and his blushing bride, whom I have only met once, is one of Christian county's fairest, and is represented as being one of the finest and best of her daughters, and if her face be an index to character, the representation is certainly true. Mr. Brown is to be congratulated upon having won so fair a bride. And they both carry with them to their new home in the West, the best wishes and prayers of their many friends in this county. B. F. Orr.

Those who are in need of plans, drawings and specifications of residences, store-rooms, churches, etc., would do well to write to Smith & Gibel, Nashville, Tenn. The ability of these gentlemen in this line cannot be surpassed, and numbers of buildings now standing recommend them to the public as experienced architects. The plans for Dr. Rodman's and Mr. Jno. B. Trice's houses were drawn by this firm, and all who have seen them pronounce them models of beauty.

It is not creditable to the enterprise of the citizens of Hopkinsville that so little attention is paid to changing signs. There are several dealers in the city doing business under the signs of men who moved out years before. In one instance on Main street a firm has been doing business under the conspicuous sign of another man for three or four years. A lawyer who removed his office two years ago has never transferred his tin sign to his new location. Numerous instances could be cited, but these are enough to call attention to a matter which a little paint would rectify.

The estimates for the H. & C. R. R., from Hopkinsville to the Trigg Co. line, by way of Bellevue and Bryant's Station, have been completed. The aggregate is a little over $32,000, or about $2,700 per mile. The line is a first-class one in every respect, and if our neighboring county of Trigg wants a railroad there is no excuse left for holding back. The estimates are for a standard gauge road and first-class work and material. The intersection with the I. & C. & T. R. R., at Bryant's is a little less than half a mile from the county line. The total estimated cost of the line as surveyed, and the branch to its intersection with the C. & O. & S. W. R. R., near Dawson, is about $145,000. This is on the basis of free labor. If we are correctly informed, convict labor would reduce the cost fully one-third. If we cannot build the road at these figures, we are too poor to need it—too poor in enterprise and too poor in resources to deserve it. Now let us put up or shut up.

The troops stationed at Morehead, Rowan county, were ordered home on last Tuesday, Court having adjourned. The Castleman Light Artillery fired a salute in honor of Maj. McKee, the officer in command of the forces. The two remaining prisoners in jail were released, one by the order of the County Judge and the other on bail.

DEADLY POISON.

TWO SENSATIONAL DEATHS CAUSED BY A FATAL MISTAKE IN ADMINISTERING QUININE.

The Proceedings of the Coroner's Inquest.

On last Tuesday, the 18th inst., two sudden deaths occurred about five miles north of the city, on the Greenville road. One was a colored child named Patsy Jane Robinson and the other a colored woman named Esther Holland. The child was given a white powder early in the morning by its grandmother, Sallie Norsinger, and died in an hour. The powder was supposed to be quinine. The woman Esther Holland during the day borrowed the same bottle of medicine and took it home with her, near by and took a dose from it and she too died in a short time thereafter. On Wednesday Coroner Kelly was notified and held inquests over the dead bodies, the verdicts of the juries being here given.

A CHILD'S LAST DOSE.

The jury being empaneled Sallie Norsinger was sworn and stated: "I am over 50 years old and am the wife of Bill Norsinger (sometimes pronounced Narsen). We live on the Greenville road, about 5 miles from Hopkinsville and have lived here about 12 years. The dead child was named Patsy Jane Robinson and was the daughter of Belle and Joe Robinson and was my grand-daughter, her mother being my daughter. Her mother, Belle, died, I think, in March '84, at Mr. Frank Holloway's, south of Hopkinsville. Patsy Jane was about 6 years old. She died at my house about 7 o'clock A. M., Aug. 18th, 1885. She was not a stout child and was generally complaining, but last week she complained more of her breast than usual. Late in the afternoon Monday she had a chill and I put her to bed. She got up about sun-up Tuesday morning and came out-doors where I was getting breakfast and said her head was hurting her very bad and I told her to go back and go to bed and I would give her some quinine. I went to the trunk of my daughter, Belle Robinson, deceased, and got out a bottle of medicine which I thought was quinine and took about three grains and mixed it up with sugar and gave it to her, but she spit it out. I then took about three grains and fixed it up in water and she took it. She went in the house and went to bed and I went on getting breakfast. In ten or fifteen minutes I went in and found her lying on her all-fours on the floor and I put her in bed and covered her up and went back to the kitchen. Soon after I heard a curious noise but thought it was another of the children and shortly afterwards I heard Patsy scream out "Oh Lord!" and my husband and I ran in and found her standing up in bed stiff. We laid her down and she said her legs hurt her and that she was suffering nightly. She asked for water and I gave her two teaspoonfuls of water and she then began to froth at the mouth and had one slight spasm and died. She lived about one hour after I gave her the medicine. She did not swell up till last night and then only a little. My daughter left four children when she died and I took them. Patsy was the oldest. Belle had a trunk and I brought it home with me. It had in it the bottle of medicine I gave Patsy yesterday. Belle told me before she died that it was quinine to break the chills on the children. The bottle stood in the trunk in my house from the time I brought it there till yesterday and it was not taken out until I took it out."

Bill Norsinger, husband of Sallie Norsinger, corroborated the statements of his wife. The jury then took the case and returned the following verdict:

ACCIDENTAL.

"We the undersigned jurors, summoned to hold an inquest on the body of Patsy Jane Robinson find that the said child died on Aug. 18th at the residence of Wm. Norsinger, in Christian Co. Ky., and that her death was caused by some poison, supposed to be strychnine, given to her by Sallie Norsinger who believed it to be quinine when she gave it; and we further find that said Sallie Norsinger gave the poison to said child believing it to be medicine and that she was not guilty of any felonious intent or act in giving said drug to said child."

THE SECOND CASE.

The jury being sworn Kitty Holland was introduced and testified: "I am 43 years old and live about 5 miles north of Hopkinsville and am a daughter of Esther Holland. My mother died yesterday, Aug. 18th, between sun-down and dark at her home. She had not been sick any except sometimes with headache. She and I went to Bill Norsinger's yesterday morning about 9 o'clock. I got there about one hour before she died. I was there long enough to shroud the dead child, Patsy Jane Robinson, before my mother got there."

We left his house together about 10 o'clock A. M., and came home. We both ate dinner when we got home. She ate a hearty meal of bacon, corn and beans. The Norsingers sent for us to come to their house. Sallie Norsinger told mother last Sunday when she was at our house and mother was complaining of headache that she had some quinine and would send it to her if she would send for it. Mother went there to get the quinine. When mother started Sallie told her it was in the trunk but they found the bottle on the mantel with about a tablespoonful of something white like quinine in it. Mother took the bottle home with her and took what was in it, about 5 o'clock. Soon afterwards I came to the house from the tobacco patch and she was smoking and complaining of her head swimming and she got up and lay down and asked for water and for some one to fan her and said her legs hurt her. She soon got speechless and died about dusk. She had three spasms, and died in the last one. She swelled considerably after she died. Martha and Sallie were always friendly."

Ann Holland, aged 22, daughter-in-law of the dead woman, corroborated Kitty Holland's statements and added that the old woman said the medicine was very bitter and she smoked to take the taste out of her mouth.

The jury returned the following verdict:

IT WAS STRYCHNINE.

"We the jury find the dead body to be that of Esther Holland, and that she died at her home in Christian county, on Aug. 18th, and that her death was caused by something (supposed to be strychnine) she took for quinine, and which she took as medicine, and which was given her by Sallie Norsinger as quinine, and we find that said Sallie Norsinger was not guilty of any felonious intent in giving said bottle and contents to said Esther Holland."

SALLIE NORSINGER.

The Norsinger woman was formerly known as Sarah Fox and lived in the Bellevue neighborhood for a number of years. The verdicts of the juries exonerated her from any suspicion of administering the poison intentionally.

FASHIONABLE TAILORING.

[FROM THE SOUTHERN TRADE REVIEW.]
Fashionable tailoring has become one of the leading arts as well as trades known at the present day to the scientific world. To cater successfully to the elite devotee of fashion is to possess a knowledge that harmonizes art with mechanism and science with common sense, as the demand for perfect fits, unique styles and faultless finish was never greater. In Hopkinsville there is a mania, not for the fobish idiosyncrasy of the New York swell, but for the elegance of construction, durability of fabric and beauty of fit, and the tailor who has not the ability to give satisfaction in these requisites can find no lodgment here for a successful operation of his business. We therefore present the name of Messrs. Fyco & Co., to show the public at large that Hopkinsville can cope even with aesthetic Boston in giving perfect satisfaction in handsome clothing, made in the most satisfactory manner. From reports of this house by the fashionable classes, only the most expert needle workmen are here employed, while the cutter and fitter stands equal to the best in the Union. Now add these facts to the very reasonable charges here made and the high commercial character of this house, and we have a merchant tailoring establishment that our city can be justly proud of.
